

CHARLES EDWARD PRICE
AND SARAH COLLINS
BETHERS PRICE

Charles Edward Price was born October 1, 1873, in Charleston, son of James and Ann Powell Price. He married Sarah Collins Bethers in Heber, the marriage being solemnized in the Salt Lake Temple on December 11, 1901. She was born March 9, 1874, daughter of William S. and Phebe McMillan Bethers. Charles died June 28, 1927. Sarah died March 7, 1952.

Sarah Collins was born at Heber. The family moved to Daniel, where she was brought up in a very spiritual home, under the influence of hard-working and loving parents. She did all the same things as young people at that time, and helped wherever necessary and attended school and Church in Center Creek.

Charles lived in Charleston, where he spent his childhood. He worked on the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, which was built into Heber, and also on the Union Pacific Railroad which was built from Echo to Park City. For years he hauled freight from Heber into the Uintah Basin country after it was thrown open to white settlers. He told how Henry Bethers, Fie Smith, Jack Casper and himself hauled 2,500 hundred-pound loads at a time at $1.25 cents a hundredweight. It took many days for a return trip. One winter trip he remembered especially required 19 days. He hauled much lumber, too.

They lived at Charleston and Daniel, and for two years in Orem, later returning to Daniel. Sarah went about caring for the sick wherever she was called and helped the needy. She reared a niece, Lila Bethers Smith, and a nephew, Mahlon (Sam) Bethers, children of her brother, George Bethers.

She was the mother of eight children: James William, Phoebe Ann, Elden Powell, Parley Edward, Albert P., Glen Taylor, Theresa and Harry Leval.
